It's the first major update we've seen since the release of the Redhook Ale Red IPA this past August that specifically mentions "Southbound". So what does that mean? The first Southbound was an amazing summer IPA with Citra, Mosaic, and Amarillo hops at 7% ABV. The second Southbound was a California Classic beer at 6.5% ABV. The IPA Southbound was phenomenal in its debut and it's not hard to imagine there's the potential for this new beer to rival the Citra-heavy IPA Southbound as well. Currently, the beer is being brewed at Wied 82157476af
